Democrats Pledge 72nd Congress to Constructive Acts

Will Not Use Obstruction-ist Tactics to Prove Power

ANSWER TO HOOVER

Statement Today Is Signed
By Seven Highest
Democrats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Democratic national leaders, with their party dominating if not actually controlling the 72nd congress, today pledged that there would be no "obstructionist tactics" when that congress meets a year from next month.

The statement conveying this message to the electorate was signed by Democratic house and senate leaders and three former Democratic nominees for the presidency.

The Democratic Statement

"We place the welfare of the nation before partisan politics, and promise to work for the return of national prosperity rather than to demonstrate any mere political strength, the statement said.

The statement was signed by the following:

James J. Cox, John J. Davis and Alfred E. Smith, former Democratic nominees for the presidency; and Senator Joe T. Robinson, minority leader in the senate; John N. Garner, minority leader in the house; and John J. Raskob and J. M. Rusk, chiefs of the Democratic National Committee.

It was believed to have been issued in reply to the "only comment" that President Hoover has made on the questions last Tuesday. President Hoover confined his comment to a single sentence, he said:

"The job for the country now is to concentrate on measures for economic recovery."

The president's statement was understood to be his reaction to hundreds of questions thrust at him by newspaper reporters.

Latest election returns from last Tuesday now clearly indicate that the Republicans have lost control of both houses, although they may be able to organize both of them in nominal fashion.

House and Senate

The present status appears to be:

HOUSE
Republicans	218
Democrats	216
SENATE
Republicans	48
Democrats	47

In the senate, where the Republicans have no more than a tie, their control is destroyed by the public statement of Smith Brookhart, Republican insurgent, that he would work with the Democratic side of the chamber unless the Republicans adhered to his proposal to establish export duties on agricultural products.

Actual control of the house, where the Republicans have but one vote margin in a total of 435, also rests with the independents, of whom there are several, chiefly on the Republican side, and who may be expected to vote as often with the Democrats as with their own party.

Gates To Suggest Death Tax Limit

State Revenue Commissioner For New Law But Not Amendment

PINE BLUFF, Nov. 8.—(AP)—David A. Gates, commissioner of state revenues, said today that he would seek the passage in the next legislature of an act to limit the state inheritance tax to the amount imposed by the federal government.

This is the proposal that was incorporated in proposed amendment No. 27, defeated at the polls last Tuesday. Mr. Gates said that he believed in the principle of the measure, but opposed this particular amendment on the grounds that it appeared wiser to accomplish the desired change by legislative enactment rather than by constitutional amendment.

He said he would offer his services for the drafting of the desired bill to be offered the legislature next January.

Cross County Votes For Stock Law and New Jail

WYNNE, Nov. 8.—Complete election returns for Cross county give a large majority for a county-wide stock law, improvement of the courthouse and building of a county jail. The stock law will become effective March 15, 1931. This date has been selected to enable the farmers to overcome the effect of the drought as much as possible. Improvements to the county courthouse, including a jail, will cost around $25,000 and will be financed by a county bond issue.

Asks Marriage Annulment

Her international romance with Lord Inverlyde, which culminated in their marriage in London last year, now may go on the legal rocks. The former June Howard-Tripp, pictured above, has brought suit in the British capital for annulment of the marriage, which she says "was never consummated." The former stage star and the multi-millionaire English nobleman were reported to have been wed after a courtship in New York and London.

6 Of Amendments Beaten in Howard

Official Canvass of That County Completed at Nashville

Howard county defeated six of the proposed nine constitutional amendments on the official canvass of that county's vote at Nashville Friday, the Nashville News informed The Star last night.

The income tax was approved overwhelmingly; the Bible-reading act passed by a smaller margin—but Amendment No. 20 (the highway commission repealer) was defeated by a comparatively close vote.

The official canvass of Howard county follows:

For governor: Parnell 934; Livesay 153.

For lieutenant-governor: Wilson 934; Harding 140.

The vote on the acts and amendments:

Measure	For	Against
Income tax	831	190

Alabama Sheriff Held For Liquor

Newly Elected Officer Is Seized in Federal Prohi Raid

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Federal agents early today arrested the sheriff-elect, a deputy sheriff, and two private citizens of Lowndes county on charges of conspiracy against the national prohibition law.

Federal and state officers made a joint raid at Haynesville about midnight last night, and arrested the following:

Buck Meadows, sheriff-elect; Leon West, deputy sheriff; M. N. Patterson and Wilbur Winn.

The raid was directed by James M. Shields, of prohibition headquarters in New Orleans.

The four prisoners were held for $15,000 bail each.

Cops Rule Against 'Dates'

BOSTON, (UP)—No longer can girl clerks at Boston police headquarters keep dates with their boy friends if the dates take them outside the city limits. A new ruling prohibits civilian members of the department from going outside the city proper at night, or over a week-end without special permission.

All Amendments Are Defeated In Hempstead Co.

Official Canvass Reveals
2,000 Votes in General Election

MEASURES GO DOWN

Referendum Proposals Lose By Margins of 300 to 400 Votes

Hempstead county defeated all of the constitutional amendments by sizeable majorities, on the complete official canvass of the vote in the general election, by the county election board at Washington this morning. The total poll in the county was an even 2,000 votes which gave the general election a little over half the total vote cast in the Democratic primary last August. It was considered a fairly heavy vote for the November contest, and interest in the eleven referendum measures was generally accredited with having brought the vote out.

The complete canvass, supervised at Washington today by the election board, W. M. Brummett, D. B. Thompson and J. O. Johnson, showed the following returns:

For senator, Joe T. Robinson, 1,974

For congressman, Tilman B. Parks, 1,983.

For governor, Harvey Parnell, 1,790;

J. O. Livesay, 143.

For lieutenant-governor: Lawrence E. Wilson, 1,760; C. H. Harding, 139.

The vote on the acts and amendments follows:

Measure	For	Against
Income tax	1,359	398
Bible-reading act	1,019	813
Amendment No. 19	790	976
No. 20	439	1,475

Babson Points Way to Revival in Business

Advertising Is the Surest Means to Improve Money Circulation

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Roger W. Babson has settled upon a remedy for the present business depression. His prescription is a sure cure, he says.

"Diagnosing the reason for the crash as over-production, he points out that this condition will be corrected as mass production can be stimulated to catch up with mass production.

"The necessary stimulant—the infallible cure, he says, is advertising, on a larger scale than the world has ever known.

"This is the way out from the present situation," he asserts in Collier's today. "It is our hope of making mass production our economic salvation instead of the dynamite that may wreck the world.

"As one who has studied business depression in life rather than in libraries, I see in current conditions the call for advertising. There's nothing wrong with the patient but poor circulation. Money is being held instead of circulated.

"Advertising is ideally fitted and competent to accelerate the circulation. It is the most effective known force for accomplishing the speeding up of money and thereby giving us more business at times when more business is the nation's greatest need.

"There never was more money than there is today. Banks hold it, corporations hold it, the people hold it. That is the trouble, the money is held instead of circulated.

"A beautiful system of piping, a plentiful supply of fluid, but the whole mechanism fails to function for want of the pumping power of publicity to tell the world of better goods, lower prices and greater service. We need a sound plan to reduce the choppy action of business and promote smoothness and steadiness of growth.

"Advertising is this sorely needed governor of business. It requires no novel mechanism. All the apparatus is available. Though capable of illimitable improvement, the fundamental principles of advertising are clearly established; its practice is a well-known art.

"The basic cause at which the jobless should shake their fists is not that too few mills are running, but that too few advertising campaigns are running.

"One proposed plan for reforming bad times is to increase public works. That policy is to waste the need, however, is not merely for works but for workers, and the way to make people work is to arouse wholesome desires through worthy advertising.

"Another proposal is to slash prices to make a mutual bargain day. Ad-

Tour to Prescott, Bodecaw, Cancelled; Will Go to Game

Hope To Concentrate on Prescott Contest Armistice Day

OTHER TRIPS LATER

High School Pep Meeting at the Saenger Monday Night

Plans for a good will tour and roads celebration which were to carry scores of local business men to Rosston and Bodecaw, Armistice day, have been abandoned, instead Hope will send a great delegation to the Hope-Prescott football game, at Prescott Tuesday afternoon.

Citizens of Rosston and Bodecaw were notified by telephone this morning that the tour to those points would be attempted at a later date.

Tour Planned Later

The original plan was to hold a public celebration over the completion of state highway No. 4 from this city to connect with Rosston, Bodecaw and other Nevada county points; but so many local business men had other holiday plans that it was considered wise to postpone the tour rather than disappoint Rosston and Bodecaw with a small attendance. The tour will be held at a later date, however.

Other plans for the celebration of Armistice day are going ahead. There will be a short formal program between the two night shows at the Saenger theatre Tuesday, under the auspices of the American Legion. Dr. L. T. Kosminsky of Texarkana, former state commander of the Legion and an excellent speaker, will make a brief address. The color guard of the local National Guard unit will hold a flag drill.

Pep Monday
For the annual football game at Prescott, Hope High School is making large plans. The pep squad will meet the Hope Boys Band at Hope city hall at 7 o'clock Monday night, will parade through the business district here, and wind up with a band concert at the Saenger at 7:30.

The members of the 1930 Hope Bobcats will be presented to the theatre audience from the stage, and the players will choose from among the girls in the audience a queen to preside over a field celebration just before the game in Prescott Tuesday afternoon. With the queen will be chosen a number of maids, all of whom will also be introduced from the stage. The band boys, members of the team and other high school students will be guests of the Saenger during their program Monday night, which will be the last public pep meeting prior to the annual game with Prescott.

Cotton Estimate Now 14,438,000

Reduced Slight November 1st Against Estimate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Cotton production for this year, as of November 1, was today estimated by Department of Agriculture to be 14,438,000 running bales.

This compares to the estimate October 1, of 14,486,000 bales, and to actual ginnings last year of 14,828,000 bales.

The Arkansas estimate was placed at 905,000 bales.

November 1st Ginnings
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Cotton ginnings of the 1930 crop, as of November 1, were reported today by the Bureau of Census to be 10,863,601 running bales, including 333,581 round bales, counted as half a bale, and 10,461 bales of American Egyptian cotton.

Arkansas ginnings were 622,392 running bales.

Chas. E. Taylor Resigns As C. of C. Secretary

PINE BLUFF, Nov. 8.—Chas. E. Taylor, former mayor of Little Rock, and the secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce here for eight years, has tendered his resignation, to become effective at the close of the year.

Action on his resignation will be taken at the regular meeting of the trustees Monday at noon. The chamber may operate for awhile without a paid secretary, it is reported. Two plans are under consideration by a committee named by President B. W. Bepton. It is expected that a report will be made by the committee at the meeting Monday.

namely, the grief that attends mass production without mass consumption, here is a novel factor that may prove of major importance. It may well temper any easy assumption that we shall pull through if we trust to luck, I prefer to trust to advertising.

The Vienna Police Must Weigh 115

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—(UP)—By the Austrian court of appeals the right of the police to pension off any member of the force whose weight drops below 115 pounds has been upheld.

A verdict to this effect was given when Johann Kleindler, age 33, appealed against dismissal from the force because the semi-annual health examination of all policemen revealed that he was under this weight.

Escaped Prisoner Is Shot to Death

Oklahoma Sheriff Kills One, and Recaptures Two Others

CHANDLER, Okla., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A prison break of four men from the Lincoln county jail was ended today with the fatal shooting of James Hapgood, convicted robber, by Sheriff Ted Mears.

Two of the remaining three were recaptured, but the fourth, Fred Moore, under two-year sentence for burglary, has apparently escaped.

Sheriff Mears caught up with the men in an automobile near here early this morning and a gun battle followed. The sheriff reported that Mears opened fire with a revolver stolen from the jail office at the time of the escape. The sheriff returned the fire, killed Hapgood and captured two of the remaining three, Hermal Cheberaux, implicated in the robbery of the Union National Bank here and other banks at Sparks and elsewhere in Oklahoma, and his pal, Bill Daniels.

The men broke jail by slugging Bill Beasler, the jailer.

Runaway Trolley Kills 2 Children

Policeman Leading Flock Across Street Also Is Hurt

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Two boys were killed, and three other children and a policeman were hurt by a runaway street-car today.

The trolley got out of control of the motorman and crashed into a halted automobile. It hurled the auto down the street to a crossing and knocked down the children and the policeman, who was leading the tots safely across the intersection.

Virginia Reform Leader Convicted

Legislator Given 5 Years in Embezzlement From Orphanage

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—James P. Jones, business man, churchman, legislator, was found guilty of embezzling $4,949 from the Virginia Methodist Orphanage and sentenced to serve five years in the state penitentiary. The jury deliberated more than seven hours.

Sentence was suspended until February 3 to give defense counsel an opportunity to file appeal to the state supreme court, which Jones' lawyers said would be done.

Jones has been known as a "moral leader" in the legislature and also has served as treasurer of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia.

Jones, who was treasurer of the orphanage from March 12, 1926, to June 17, 1930, was indicted on six charges of embezzlement and grand larceny involving orphanage funds totaling $37,976.40. Commonwealth's Attorney Setonfield said no action would be taken on the remaining five indictments until after a decision on the appeal.

When Jones' accounts were taken over by orphanage trustees in June, Jones made a settlement of $14,000 cash, and later another settlement of obligations amounting to approximately $23,000, which the trustees pronounced satisfactory to them. In the here is a novel factor that may prove of major importance. It may well temper any easy assumption that we shall pull through if we trust to luck, I prefer to trust to advertising.

Jones was released on $15,000 bond.

Parnell Policies Get Overwhelming Vote From State

Income Tax Upheld—Bible Reading Act Made New Law

REMAINDER BEATEN

Associated Press Has Complete Returns From 1,700 Precincts

By The Associated Press
The constitution of Arkansas has passed certain today to continue unchanged for at least another two years.

On the basis of returns including close to nine-tenths of the total vote cast in last Tuesday's general election, indications are that the result of the balloting would be the continuance of the Democratic state administration, the retention of the Fall income tax on the statute books, and the addition of one lone new law—the act which makes the reading of the Bible compulsory in all the reported schools through the high school grades.

All Arkansas
Related returns, continuing all amendments against all the proposed amendments.

It is a smashing victory for Governor Parnell and his administration policies. Included in the nine defeated amendments are one by Lieutenant Governor Cazort, seven by the Arkansas Taxpayers association, and one referred to popular vote by the last legislature. All are regarded as defeated beyond doubt on complete returns from 1,700 of the state's 2,070 precincts, including 49 counties complete.

The vote on the referendum measures follows:

Arkansas and Its Resources

EDITORS NOTE: This is the fifth and last of a series of editorial articles upon the Forest Resources of Arkansas, by Charles Goale.

A proposed forestry law has been prepared for introduction in the next session of the Arkansas legislature. The bill has the endorsement of various agriculture and forestry groups and while the draft in its present form may not be perfect, it is believed that, with little change it would be a satisfactory basis for the creation of a state Forestry Department.

The bill carries no appropriation clause. This defect can easily be remedied and provision made for certain funds appropriated under a budget plan or otherwise to adequately finance the department. The proposed bill is based upon the so-called Wilson bill that was introduced in the last session of the Arkansas legislature, but has a number of new clauses which have been added by E. Murray Bruner, District Forest Inspector, Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture; G. H. Collingwood, federal Forester, Washington, D. C.; and Dean Dan T. Gray, State College of Agriculture, Fayetteville, the latter, however, offering several important suggestions that were made after the draft of the proposed bill and which are not included in it. These, of course, could be included before the bill is introduced.

Dean Gray believes the three members to be appointed on the proposed State Forestry Commission of five members, should represent very widely the general interests of Arkansas, including especially agriculture and forestry as well as the lumber industry. The suggestion is a splendid one and could be incorporated in proper language into the bill. An apparent overlapping of duties of the commission with that of the Plant Board could be corrected, Dean Gray points out, and a similar modification in respect to an apparent overlapping of duties with the established research and extension agencies of the state.

The proposed bill is presented herewith. It is a splendid start. Such legislation is vitally necessary to the future economic life of the state, especially as regards its forests and the agricultural and industrial life of the state, that depends in a large degree upon timber for crops and lumber mills for prosperity. Following is the proposed bill in full:

PROPOSED FORESTRY LAW

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS

SECTION 1. There is hereby created and established a State Forestry Commission, composed of five members, as follows:

The Director of Extension of the College of Agriculture, the Commissioner of Mines, Manufactures and Agriculture, and three members to be appointed by the Governor, one for a term of two years, one for a term of four years, and one for a term of six years from March 15, 1931. All subsequent appointments shall be for the term of six years, except that appointments to fill vacancies shall be for the unexpired term.

The appointed members of the Commission shall be residents citizens of the State of Arkansas who shall be selected because of their special knowledge of an interest in the forest lands and forest industries of the State.

The members of the Commission shall serve without compensation, but they shall be reimbursed for actual and reasonable expenses incurred in performance of their duties. The Commission shall elect a chairman and vice chairman, and fix the terms and duties of their offices, and prescribe its rules and regulations.

SECTION 2. The duties and powers of the Commission shall be:

(1) To cooperate with the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, or his duly authorized representative with the University of Arkansas and other State Agencies, and with the farmers, forest owners, and other residents or organizations of the state in the prevention and suppression of forest fires and in the control of forest insects and diseases; in the growing and distribution of forest planting stock; and in the gathering and dissemination of information concerning the growth, utilization, and renewal of forests, to the end that the forests throughout the State, and the forest industries may be perpetuated.

(2) To formulate and put into effect such policies, plans, and reasonable rules and regulations as may be necessary to the accomplishment of the above purposes.

(3) To submit annually to the Governor a report of its expenditures, accomplishments, and plans for further work.

(4) To employ a State Forester, and such supervisory, administrative and clerical assistants to him, as may be necessary to carry on the work of the Commission, to fix their respective compensations, and authorize and approve their necessary expenses. The State Forester shall have had technical training in the profession of forestry, and adequate experience in administrative work in forestry.

The State Forester shall serve as Secretary to the Commission, and be the custodian of its books, records and papers.

SECTION 3. All moneys appropriated by the General Assembly or otherwise made available for carrying out the purposes of this Act shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a special fund, to be known as the State Forestry Fund, to be drawn upon by the Commission, to meet its expenses, as it may direct.

(1) Contributions to the State Forestry Fund may be made by persons, associations, or corporations, interested in promoting the cause of forestry in the State.

All laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed and this Act shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage.

Many Nations Will Go to Air Congress

Meeting to Reduce Aerial Hazards Planned For December

PARIS, Nov. 7. (UP)—The Ministry of Air has announced that 40 of the 48 principal world governments have announced their intention of sending delegates, inventors and experts to the first World Aerial Security Congress here, December 10 to 23.

The French government hopes that the Congress will advance safe travel in the air by ten years. Every form of aerial travel is to be considered. Inventors will be encouraged to attend with their delegations and demonstrate safety appliances.

Two days will be spent at the governing experimental aerodrome at Orly where inventions will be given a practical demonstration. Much attention will be paid to parachutes. Inventors will be encouraged to leap with their own inventions.

The sessions will be held in the mansion of Prince Roland Bonaparte.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The United States has elected about a dozen women to Congress in the last 14 years. Canada's House of Commons has had but one. She was elected in 1921 and has been reelected three times since.

In the last election she had a comparatively narrow squeak because she and her party stood for very friendly relations with the United States. Canada has been rather sour toward the United States since the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was enacted, and the lady saw her last previous majority dwindle from 1842 votes to 246.

Her name is Miss Agnes Campbell MacPhail, and she was the other day to attend a meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Your correspondent talked with her and considered her rather a surprising person. She is somewhat less than middle-aged.

"Our stupidity of 1911 when we rejected reciprocity has now been equalled by your country's stupidity in passing its new tariff act," she said. "You know, we have always been your best customer, and in the last calendar year bought nearly a billion dollars worth of goods from you."

"Canada is now diverting her trade just as you'd divert a stream of water. It will take a long time to overcome the bad effects of this situation. Trade naturally flows north and south on this continent and here we are interfering with the natural process, acting as if trade were undesired. It may result in bringing up an economic union in the British commonwealth."

Once Taught School

Before she was elected from Grey County, Ontario, she taught school. She took a great interest in agriculture and went around whooping up organization and concerted action among the farmers, preaching the theory that no one would ever help them if they didn't help themselves. She was always interested in other public questions, but thought it especially important that Canadian farmers be saved from peasantry.

Then one day 400 farmers—all men—got together at a convention of the United Farmers and nominated her for Parliament. She became a leader in the farm bloc at Ottawa, which now has about 25 members, and such reports as we get from this country indicate that she is regarded as a very able citizen. She specializes in economic and agriculture, international peace and good will.

"I found my first session very trying," said Miss MacPhail. "There was deep resentment over the fact that a woman had broken in. But the fellowship of the Commons has since been extended to me, and it is a precious thing."

She has tried to get a government Department of Peace, without much help, and still hopes for active, cordant co-operation from some government agency with the peace movement.

"Talk Peace, Girl for War!"

"Our governments talk peace and spend their money for war," she says. "All forward, liberal things are now suffering in a period of reaction, partly caused by depression. Things look gloomy all over the world. But the tendency toward human unity, though slow, is continuous. We started in the days when certain tribes first became friendly, and now we have come to the point where nations recognize their interdependence."

What are women doing with the vote?

"Progress by women in politics seems slow, but they're really doing well," said Miss MacPhail. "The only comparison I can think of dates back to 1832 in Great Britain when the workmen of the country first got the vote. It was almost a generation before they took any apparent interest in it. We're not proceeding as slowly as that. Women are studying national and international affairs, digging deeply into them, which means that they're seriously interested."

News of Other Days

From the Files of the Star

25 YEARS AGO

About 1:30 this morning the town was awakened by the alarm of fire, and the meat market of Moore Bros., on Main street was found to be in flames. Much good work was done by the volunteer firemen, and by a heroic effort the store in which the Racket store is located, next door to the building burned, was saved. However, the stock of the Racket store was almost an entire loss due to the effects of smoke and water. Thirty minutes after the fire was discovered, the building, occupied by the meat market, was a mass of flames. Luckily there was hardly any wind at the time, so the whole business district would have been in immediate danger. The burned building was the property of Miss Janet McRae, and the loss was covered by insurance. The stock and fixtures of the market was also insured. There was no insurance on the stock of the Racket store. The people of our city have practically no protection from fire, and surely no matter deserves more immediate attention at the hands of the city authorities.

10 YEARS AGO

American Legion Celebration—as was announced some time ago the Miller Post of the American Legion, of Texarkana, will hold a big Armistice day celebration in that city on Thursday of this week, November 11, and they are planning a full day of real entertainment for the veterans of the late World War. Every ex-service man who can possibly go to Texarkana on that date is urged to notify John H. Greene, commander of the local post, so the arrangements can be made in advance. It is especially urged that Leslie Huddleston Post No. 12, have a good representation in the parade Thursday morning.

The public schools of Hope will be dismissed on Thursday and Friday of this week on account of the convening in Little Rock, of the State Teachers Association. Every teacher in Hope is a member of the association and will attend its sessions.

At least, there's one thing that Chicago gangsters have to be thankful for—life insurance agents probably never pester them.

The linotype who set it "Bernard Shaw to Burdcast" probably had his own ideas of a good pun.

This is the age when it behooves many a stockbroker to consult the pawnbroker.

A Pittsburgh man, shot in error by a policeman, commented him on his alariness. And this time is little doubt that the tactful cop replied: "I aim to please."

Stilt Walker Gets Damages

EAST RADFORD, Va., (UP)—Jack "Hi Jack" Redman, who set out from Lynwood, N. J., to walk to Los Angeles or still is $22 richer as the result of being struck by an automobile near East Radford. His stilts were knocked from under him, causing him to suffer minor bruises. The woman driver was arrested and fined $75, of which $22 went to Redman who then resumed his journey.

Canned pea production in the United States during 1930 was about 22,000,000 cans.

home of Mrs. Kinser on South Main street. The rooms were beautifully decorated with gorgeous mammoth yellow chrysanthemums and ferns.
Nineteen tables were arranged for bridge, and the handsome new fall costumes of the players lent beauty and smartness to the scene. In the score count Mrs. Tutley Henry won the high score favor and Mrs. Terrell

NANCY CARROLL
in "Laughter"
A Paramount Picture.

Nancy Carroll the versatile charmer, who so recently vowed everyone by her sterling work in "Follow Thru" with Charles Hoppers is capable of portraying any kind of character with remarkable fidelity to type.
Her latest production
she offers for your approval one of her finest pieces of work—a swell job of acting by a swell actress.
Laughter is made of throbbing human stuff and will appeal to everyone.
The work of Fredric March is also a shining light of Laughter. You will remember him for his remarkable work in Manslaughter.

Among others in the cast is Frank Morgan, one of the foremost character comedians and leading men on Broadway. All in all we recommend "Laughter" to you as a truly laudable bit of cinema entertainment.

Miss Ruth Baker, Reading of the National President's message, Mr. Paul for more books for the Junior High library, followed by a talk on the need of books for the library by Miss Ruby

Wyatt, representing the student body;
Fiancé duces, Misses Mary Jo Radv and Mary Della Carriagn; talk on "Helping the Child Read" Mrs. J. A.
Brady; Miss Hudson gave a talk on "Good English" exhibiting posters made by her class in English. Mrs.
Dorsey McRae read the state president's message.

Miss Mary Louise Davis entertained at a most delightful dancing party last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Lewis on South Hervey street. Autumn leaves, ferns and pink cosmos decorated the rooms which were cleared for dancing and two tables of bridge, with music by the radio-orchestra. A refreshing ice course with punch and cake was served at the close of the evening to twenty couples.

The Hope High Bobcat

VOLUME 1

HOPE HIGH SCHOOL, HOPE, ARKANSAS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1930

NUMBER 5

The Bobcat

Published every Saturday at Hope High School, by the students of Hope High School.

Editor: Hilburn Graves
Business Manager: Elizabeth Middlebrook
Manager: A. B. Fatten
Editorial Board: Willis Breed, Lane Dodson, Arthur Miller, Lane Taylor, Agnes Smith, Hazel Hipp

SOS

On October 29 the Editor of the Bobcat wrote the following lines, which when the public attention was focused on the matter, would be an excellent time to go into the whole business of unemployment.

We agree with Mr. Washburn and wonder how many people have given the unemployed high school boy a little serious thought.

It would be a great surprise to many of our citizens if they could be on the school grounds and in nearby gathering places and see the different groups of students earnestly discussing "hard times" and the unemployed situation which the parents cannot do otherwise than touch the children, consequently the high school student often has some pretty serious problems to work out. The trouble is that people do not realize that school days are a mixture of other things besides lessons and football.

One of the main features of the school boys nature and unless he can come to classes, neatly dressed naturally he feels cramped and embarrassed, therefore he is self-conscious and cannot concentrate to the fullest extent on his lessons. In other words, the student actually tries to keep up his school work with only one or two books, when they should have four. Then we have magazines to buy and many other little expenses that the grownups have either forgotten or know nothing about.

If there is any class of youngsters deserving of a boost it is the young men and women who are earnestly striving for an education and the struggle need not be so difficult. If the citizens would only wake up to the fact that they could help solve the problem and relieve the strain by giving the high school student encouragement.

A great many of the girls and boys have become efficient in typing and they would be only too glad to get extra work of that kind after school hours and on Saturday, so why not call on Mrs. Dean, commercial teacher in the high school and let her supply the need when an extra stenographer is wanted in other words make it a sort of employment agency and see how eager the part time hired hand is to please and how quickly they anticipate the employers needs.

Many of the students have had experience in the sales department of stores, why can't they at least find a job for one day in each week. We are not so "hoosie" when needs must we go out to face and if you don't believe we will gladly "Caddy" bundles, just give us a trial.

There is not a school in the state that can boast of any better musicians than Hope Hi. These boys and girls are not members of any organization and are free to play anywhere, yet there is nothing in Hope for them. They can go to some other city and play right along by the side of professional "b.b." men and fill the bill before the mike in the radio orchestra and the lid down and when they hear music they call in strangers and the stranger is perhaps not half as well qualified as the home-spun product. Still the out-of-towners prosper, they come in and get the money but we may be sure they take it home to spend. So we ask the town, "Where is the profit?"

It takes no great length of time to determine what should be done. Hope is composed of fair minded people and the school students have never lost faith in them, because they know it is only a matter of darkness before dawn and it won't be long now.

THE BORROWER.

There is a person in every school known as the borrower. He is a smiling, congenial person who does everything you think, to please you or for such things as a sheet of paper or a pencil, you can kiss it good-bye, for if he is the last time you may see it. He may pretend to be your friend when he wants to borrow something, but when he gets what he wants you are soon forgotten and never noticed again until he wants something else. The wide-awake student of the school should isolate this Mr. Borrower, and make him spend some of his nickels and dimes for school supplies instead of allowing him to borrow other students' supplies all the time.

This Mr. Borrower is the kind of person who does not seem to care whose feelings he hurts when some one refuses to lend, or give him something every day of the year. Mr. Borrower is becoming a nuisance and ought to be got rid of. The students are the only ones who can do it. How? By refusing to lend him a sheet of paper, a pencil, a fountain pen, a book, or anything the borrower wants.

Now, when a student who is in the habit of keeping his own writing supplies happens to be without paper or pencil, it is a different matter. But, students, you ought to get rid of this fellow who borrows all the time and never pays back, or buys anything himself. The only way to do it is to refuse absolutely to give him anything that he tries to borrow, in the way of school supplies, that are necessary to the school boy or girl.

Compliments of the Scrappers Club.
Written by Herbert Dodson.

Order Placed For 1931 Senior Rings

Seniors Soon to Be Vested With Official Emblems of Authority

The Senior Class of Hope High School graduates of 1931, has ordered its rings. It is customary for the class to select their rings during their Senior year. Contrary to this custom the Senior Class, when they were Juniors, voted to make the Senior ring of the 1930 class a standard ring.

The ring is of 14 karat yellow gold. On the top is a Bobcat head with the words Hope High School, Hope, Arkansas, circling around it. On one side the ring is the state seal with 19 under it, representing the state and century, while the other side is a watermelon and the number 31 under it. This represents Hempstead county and the year of graduation.

The order was placed last Tuesday, October 30, with Mr. Keith, one of Hope's jewelers. Thirty rings were ordered costing $8 each. The Senior class, are expecting to be wearing their new rings next month.

Hope High Holds National Charters

Charters in Nation-Wide Organization in Hope High School

One of the most successful ways of judging a school's work is by comparing it with work other schools are doing. It is the object of the various national organizations, that operate within the secondary schools of America to give to school activities some sort of objective standards for measuring accomplishments, and also to motivate the work of keeping the mark of others before the eyes of each individual organization.

The Hope High School is in possession of several charters of national organizations. The North Central Association has granted Hope High membership in its list of associated schools. The National Honor Society, which chooses its membership from the student bodies of secondary schools on the basis of service, leadership, scholarship and character, has a chapter in Hope. Several of the faculty members have been members of the society when they were in High Schools, J. C. Hinsley, C. C. Reynolds, Martha Winburn, Martha Virginia Stuart and Elizabeth Harrison.

Charter for a chapter of the National Athletic Honor Society was granted in 1928. The purpose of this society is, to foster high scholarship among boys athletes; to stimulate a desire for balanced training; to elevate the ideas of sportsmanship and to develop more outstanding leaders in the secondary schools of the United States.

Eligibility to membership in this society shall be limited to those boys earning an athletic letter in one of four major sports, football, basketball, baseball, track, or letters in their minor sports whose average in their school work for three consecutive semesters is equal to or higher than the general average of the school, and who have exemplified the highest type of citizenship and sportsmanship.

The Dope Bucket

By DOC

"BEAT PRESCOTT" is the foremost thought in the minds of the entire student body of Hope Hi. The team is on the eve of the game of games and every football boy will trot out on the field at Prescott ready to die to hold the line against the onslaughts of the Outrigger Team.

Our last victory over our most beloved opponents was way back in 1921, so this year the work has turned. We are about to start on a winning streak which will last so long that Prescott will quit having a football team.

The boys are all confident, but not cocky. They realize that the game will be a hard one, but are sure of coming out on top. Everything in the Bobcats knowledge of football will be shown on Armistice day and the school is sure that the Curly Wolves will be carried off the field a sadder but wiser bunch of boys.

In the words of Werhose Jones, our possible all-state tackle, "It may be the end of the war to some people, but it's the beginning of a real war to me." That is the sentiment of every Bobcat in a few words.

Although the Bobcat is largely a high school publication, the staff hopes to use often the talent of the other schools of the system. Miss Milburn, principle of Oglesby, has written this A. E. A. article for us.

Tiger-They tell me that Winter Canon has a very wide circle of friends.

Hilburn-That is perfectly true, they can't keep far enough away from her.

Home Room

The 9B Home Room held its regular Monday program this week in the auditorium.

The program was as follows:
Song-Class.
Piano Solo-Princess Watson.
Reading-Martha Bell Shalk.
Story-Herman Valentine.
My First Day at School-Thomas Wilson.

The class was then opened for a general discussion of a picnic and the business was attended to.

On Monday, November 3, the 10 A's and 11 A's had a very interesting and entertaining visitor, Brother Harman, the minister of the Christian Church. He gave us several selections on his new musical instrument called the Broomcanon. The selections were (1) Humoresque, (2) America, (3) Yes, Sir, That's My Baby, (4) Pagan Love Song, (5) Old Black Joe, (6) Happy Days, and (7) Washington and Lee Swing. This instrument was made of an old broom with a can nailed on one end and guitar strings attached from one end to the other. It was played with a violin bow. He also did some slight of hand tricks with four small balls. The performance was enjoyed very much by all. We hope to have him come back again and entertain us some more real soon.

The 10 B Home Room met last Monday in Miss Autry's room. The class prophesy was given was given by Janice Ward as follows:

As I, after an absence of 25 years, return to the scene of my school days I find that the hand of time has written many changes on the slate of former days.

The class of 1930 is scattered to the four corners of the earth, but upon inquiry I find that their fame has not failed to reach home; girls names have changed and boys have acquired titles, but in order that you may identify the class of a quarter of a century ago, I use the names as they were then.

As I was in Chicago I inquired about Lois Dodson and found that she had made a brilliant marriage to Lloyd Lingo, King of the underworld in that city. Of course, this was a surprise to me for I didn't expect Lois to make such a lucky marriage.

As there was a carnival in the city I decided to go. On arriving a saw a large crowd surrounding a small slide show so I went to see what the attraction was. Imagine my surprise when I saw my old schoolmates, Norma Turner and Dorothy Dodson.

A day or two later I arrived in New York, where I bought a newspaper. A large headline attracted my attention. Upon reading the article I found that Mrs. Corley Tedder, formerly Miss Louise Lewis, had spent thousands of dollars trying to find her husband, who had recently made his money in Wall street and now had run away with Virginia Hutchins, a cigarette girl in one of the night clubs of St. Louis.

Arriving at the hotel I found a letter which had a foreign stamp on it. It was from Helen King Canon who was a missionary in China; and was asking my advice as to whether she should marry a cute little Chinese man with whom she had fallen in love.

I was not at all surprised to learn that the boys we used to know as Colburn Aubrey and Donald Moore were home wreckers and had bachelor's quarters in London.

I also heard that Lane Taylor was a first class preacher in Sprudell, Ark., and he was practicing what he preached.

Victor Cobb travels in the Orient, writes guide books, guides people to places that no other guide will go. Few travelers survive.

Happy Pritchard married the only son of Wrigley, the chewing gum king. Marilyn Ward, a novelist of renown and writer of the world's best sellers of 1950, is now teaching Sagar to her two year old son, George Jr.

Marjorie Higginson is known as the "cutest Kick Hitten Jazz Baby".

Moore Lewis has become a famous deep sea diver.

Harry McLeone is a pirate in the Dead Sea.

Nina Thompson is a Ford car salesman and breaks the record of sales by selling 125 cars in one week to misunderstood husbands.

George Marshall leads an orchestra in New York City called the "Shakalee".

Elbert Austin besides being in the newspaper business spends his time whittling willow whistles for his 13 kids.

Talbot-I know an example of true love.

Miss Winburn-What is it?

Talbot-Our maid loves the postman so much she writes herself a letter every night so he will be sure to come the next day.

Adrell-Don't you love driving in the moonlight?

Tom-Yes, but I thought that I would wait till we got a little further out in the country.

Frances-I have been engaged to one man seven times.

Miss M. G. A.-That's nothing, I have been engaged to seven men at one time.

Hilburn-I don't see you out with Helen Ruth any more. What has happened?

Doc-The doctor told me to give up sweets.

Pep Meeting at Saenger Monday

Pep Squad Sponsors Meeting at Saenger Before Prescott Game

Who was it who said, "We must prepare for the future?" Just the same we MUST prepare for the future, or that is November 11th. There can be no doubt in anyone's mind as to what day that is-why it is Armistice Day, the day that the world war ended, but will it be the end of another war? Not for we play Prescott, our jinx, on that day, and what a battle will be staged. If the ones who signed the peace pact for the world war could see us Tuesday, they'd be kinda glad they stopped one war. But why let Prescott always be our jinx? There is no excuse if the people of Hope and Hope High feel.

Monday night, November 10th, between first and second shows at the Malco-Saenger theater, a spell of magic is going to be passed over long dead and almost forgotten friend, it will be made to arise from that dead and will be active again. This friend is "Hope's Spirit". The spirit for Hope High and the mighty Bobcats has acted as once good fire, but which is how coals and barely flickering and fighting for life. The rescuers are the Pep Squad and others. We (Pep Squad) can't stand aside much longer and see our boys not be supported by friends so there is going to be a Pep Meeting for the school girls and boys 25, 30 and probably 4 years ago, not speaking of the 1930 scholars. When the other cheer leaders get up on the stage there are new visions of the rising spirit and what we want to know is that, that spirit is tingling in everyone's body.

We want to be especially nice to our guests and let them sit where they please, at the theater, but there are some seats reserved. The center section, down front, will be occupied by the Pep Squad and other school students. Our friends may sit elsewhere. An entertaining stunt is going to be given along with the yells.

And Now "What Price Football?" We Ask

One afternoon after school a rising young sophomore and two or three other boys, including a member of the Bobcat staff, had been watching the football boys practicing and were now on their way to town.

"Now," quoted the soph, "I wouldn't go out for football, I might sprain my ankle or break a leg. Besides what do you get out of it anyway?"

He awfully pessimistic. But the poor boy was doomed! That night on his way to work something went amiss and lo and behold, there was a sprained ankle, which knocked him out of a week's pay and four days of school. -Very sad.

Exchange

NASHVILLE-The Scrappers, Nashville high school's football team lost to the strong Malvern team in a last game on the Malvern field last Friday afternoon, 26 to 0. Malvern putting over four touchdowns, with the extra point after two. Although the score looks rather one-sided, the game is reported as one of the best the Scrappers ever played, and the Nashville boys were not without honor in the conflict. The Malvern players stated that the Nashville team gave them the best game they have had except that with Fordyce.

Nashville came near scoring just at the end of the first half, having the ball on the one-foot line and three downs to go when the whistle blew ending the half. Also in the final period the Malvern team made their fourth touchdown on a pass just as the final whistle blew, there being a question as to time on the clock, but it was decided in favor of Malvern.

Garland P. T. A. Monthly Meeting

12B Class Has Charge of the Program on Reading

The Garland Parent-Teachers Association met Thursday, November 4, at the high school. The program was in the hands of the 12B class with Miss Martha Winburn, class sponsor, in charge. The subject was "A Leisure Time Opportunity."

The meeting was held, very appropriately in the school library. Wilbur Breed of the Senior Class gave some information about the rules, the benefits and the needs of "Our School Library." Eleanor Foster read a clever and entertaining little allegory, "My Home Library." Miss Foster is a competent for her original work. Mrs. L. A. Foster, one of the 12B mothers, spoke on "Leisure Time Opportunities," in her charming way. Miss Winburn spoke on the subject, "Cultivating Good Taste in Reading," and as a concluding number led a round table discussion on "Books I Would Like to Read this Winter." Miss Beryl Henry, Mrs. Talbot Field, Mr. Hinsley, Mrs. Lowthorpe, Miss Harrison and others took part.

At the business meeting which preceded the program, plans were made for the P. T. A. Mothers Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Talbot Field, and the Study Club led by Mrs. Albert Graves. Home room mothers were appointed. It was announced by Mrs. L. A. Foster that the P. T. A. is now a Gold Star organization in subscriptions to the Child Welfare Magazine, Mrs. Dorsey McRae presided, with Miss Martha Lee as secretary.

Hope High Twins On Football Team

Big Pep Meeting Held at High School Thursday Morning

In order that there might be a pep meeting all the clubs that meet on Thursday were postponed until Friday and the pep meeting was held during activity period. Pep talks were made by Coach Wilkins, Co-captains Lynn Harrell and Matthew Reeves, and Miss Henry.

The student body was very peppy to begin with and after these talks were made the pep leaders could not hold them down. There were yells between the talks and so much cheering for the speakers that they could hardly speak.

It was discovered during this meeting that there were twins on our football team. Miss Autrey was the enterprising teacher who brought to light that these twins both were ends and that their birthdays were on the same day, November 4. These twins were (you'll never guess) Bert Mauldin and Ikey Pritchett who also made a little (very little) talk. Fordyce has his famous football twins-and now that Hope has discovered their "set" we are expecting business to pick up with a rush.

Edwin Sissel Injured In Arkadelphia Game

During the game played between Hope and Gordon last Thursday, one of the many good players of Hope was slightly injured. This player was Edwin Sissel playing left end.

During the last play of the game, Sissel attempted to block a Gordon man and received a wrenching back. As it was the last play of the game, one was sent in to substitute for him. He is now attending school and the only memorandum of his injury is a still slightly sore back. He will play in his old position Tuesday against the strong Prescott team.

Expense involved and the chances of a financial loss on the game. With the school in no condition to carry the burden of a loss on the game, Mr. Greene declared that the local school had asked and received the agreement of Fordyce to cancel the contract.

Expenses of staging the game with the state champions would run between $700 and $800 it was estimated and school officials decided that too big a risk would be involved, depending on weather conditions and other problems.

Fordyce, which bowled over Little Rock last Friday, readily agreed to the cancellation as the Reddubs are anxious to play an inter-state championship tilt on Thanksgiving. The Reddubs apparently have a strange hold on the Arkansas championship and believe that they can easily draw more in a game with another state titlist than their $500 guarantee for coming here.

The cancellation of the game will prevent fans of Blytheville and North Arkansas from seeing one of the best high school teams in the country in action, including five all-state players.

Coach Henry Hudson of the Chickasaw stated today that he has been burning up the wires in an effort to secure a worthy opponent for his eleven here Thanksgiving. Efforts are being made to secure one of the ranking teams out of St. Louis for the Turkey Day feature.

"Unless we can get a team that will give the Chickasaws a real competition we will not schedule another game," declared the Chick mentor.

WHO'S WHO

"Who's Who in Hope High" may sound like a tongue twister but in reality it is a new "racket" of the Hope High Bobcat's weekly page. Believing that our readers are really interested in what goes on at school, we may safely believe that they are also interested in the characters and personalities that frequent our campus. In this case the usual order of business at Hope High School (that is alphabetical order) has been discarded in favor of another plan. Every teacher was asked to specify the three most outstanding members of the student body. The following is a brief sketch of the scholastic activities of each of the three who were chosen. Other similar sketches will follow.

Talbot Field Jr., was the logical first choice. He holds the enviable and exalted position of official bell ringer, which entitles him to ring bells-that is, under the supervision of Henry, the janitor. His heart is often torn between Western Union and Henry, but the latter is nearer home.

Talbot has the really unusual record of being president of both his Junior and his Senior class. He was a member of the football squad in '29 and '30, track squad '29 and '30, tennis '30, pep squad '29. Talbot is right hand man of the office corps, owner of a lovely large flashlight, a big key lapel, and the dirtiest car in the county. He is the son of Talbot Field.

Eleanor Foster's scholastic activities have been so varied that she is (with difficulty) classified. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Foster, both prominent in public works; he is in Chamber of Commerce, she particularly in Parent-Teachers association, serving on General Council, of the Garland P. T. A., child welfare and hospital committees. In her sophomore year Eleanor, was Hope's major in the Watermelon Festival and member of the pep squad. In her junior year, she served on the committee to select the annual play, helped direct the chorus, took part in both play and chorus, was chairman of the entertainment in invitation committee for the Junior-Senior Banquet and was elected to the National Honor Society on the strength of her scholarship, which honor is carried over into the senior year. Member of Physical Ed Club, Dramatic Club this year and chairman of the exceedingly important entertaining papers, sing and play on various programs, and also take leading part in a one-act play for the Dramatic Club.

One of the big men of the student body is our efficient editor, Hilburn Graves. He is a junior now. During his sophomore year he was president of his class, president of Hope Boys Band and Hi-Y club. In October of that year he won the state championship in the saxophone contest sponsored by Professor Henry Tovey, supervisor of music at the University of Arkansas. In Hot Springs, June 1930, Hilburn won first place among the saxophone players of 25 bands. This year he is president of the Junior class and Hi-Y Club. His musical "Gilly" occasioned an offer from "Green Lantern Entertainers" which he refused on account of school, and most notable of all Hilburn is Editor-in-Chief of the Hope High Bobcat, a job guaranteed to fill all his spare moments right, or nine days a week.

A. E. A. Session to Open Next Week

State Teachers to Convene at Little Rock Next Thursday

One week out of every year is devoted especially to education. It is observed throughout the United States. During the latter part of the week all the teachers meet at a certain city in that state and learn better and newer ways of teaching school.

The city chosen for Arkansas was Little Rock, the capital. This special week is November 9th to 15th. On November 13, the teachers of the state will meet at Little Rock and will spend the rest of the week there. Interesting lectures, banquets and all sorts of things will be provided for their amusement.

Hope will be represented by practically all of its teachers. The city schools will close Wednesday p. m., November 14th and the students will have Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday for vacation and will return to school Monday following the short closing of the schools.

Annual Education Week is very important to the school teachers. Here they have a best means of learning new methods of teaching.

Pen Printshop Enlarged

AUSTIN, Texas, (UP)-Enlargement of a small print shop in the Texas state prison at Huntsville has been ordered. Prison Manager Lee Simmons has visions of increasing it to take care of all state printing for which hundreds of thousands of dollars is expended annually.

A. E. A. Value to State Education

Miss Milburn, Oglesby Principal, Writes Second Article By Teachers

Practically everything of real value that has been done toward Arkansas education in the past 35 years has been realized through the work of the Arkansas Educational association, an association.

All the progress of Arkansas education is due to this association. It is true that we have a state council or board of education made up of a representative from each county, which makes plans for Arkansas education, but these plans are submitted to the association and are passed upon and carried out by this body of teachers.

Arkansas has as its program the placing of a four year high school, with its vocational opportunities, within the reach of every Arkansas boy and girl, and giving them

HEARD HERE TODAY

CELIA MITCHELL, 17, loved to share an evening with a woman of her age.

"Oh, but Mrs. Parsons, you're not old!" The words were not gallantly flattered, but they were sincere. "Why, you can't be—well, more than a year or two older than I am!"

"My dear boy! Certainly I must reward you for that." She lifted a silver shaker from a tray and filled two fragile glasses. One she handed to the young man.

"Shall we drink to youth?" she asked, smiling.

Shields answered her glance. "No—to beauty!"

Evelyn's low laugh rippled delightfully.

"Now I know some girl is intensely jealous of me! I don't know when I've heard so many compliments. I shall set you down as a deliberate heart-breaker."

Shields grinned. "Oh, but I don't go around with girls at all! I don't even know any—except Celia. Never did have much to do with girls except her. Where is Celia?"

"Oh, I forgot you didn't know. Really, I'm surprised she didn't tell you. Celia's spending a couple of days in the country with friends. It's a gay young crowd she's been seeing quite a lot of. You know Celia's awfully popular. For a girl of—well, rather limited social experience she surprises me every day. She seems to have just that little touch that arouses men's interest—and keeps them interested."

CHAPTER I

BARNEY SHIELDS strode into the apartment living room with a slightly nervous smile. His new evening clothes made him self-conscious. He was also a trifle in awe of the beautiful Mrs. Parsons.

"Good evening! Oh, Mr. Shields, this is so good of you! I'm delighted that you could come."

Evelyn's voice was low and melodious. She came to meet him looking like a gold and white Grecian goddess seated in a modern setting. Her gown was sheer, draped on classic lines that were nevertheless subtly new. The dress was low cut, artfully following the figure.

Shields could not fail to be impressed.

"How do you do," he said. "I think I'm lucky to be invited."

The dazzling creature took his hand and held it for an instant. Then she motioned toward the davenport.

"Won't you sit down?—Dinner will be served very soon."

Barney dropped to the luxuriously cushioned seat. Mrs. Parsons took a chair close by. She knew at that angle the light on her face was flattering.

"I appreciate your coming," she went on, "because I know how much in demand good-looking young men are, and how frightfully the flapper crowd compete for them. Not many would be willing to share an evening with a woman of my age."

"You know I never dreamed your work was so fascinating!" Evelyn said.

"Well, of course, it is to me. Lots of folks think it's pretty dull. I like to talk to a person like you, Mrs. Parsons. You understand. You know I've got three or four pictures I'd like to show to you. There's that cloud stuff I made during the air circus. They got me my job with Apex. Then there's a parachute leap and a shot I made of an engine. Would you like to see them?"

"I'd love to!"

"Some time I'll show them to you. Of course they're not wonderful, but—well, I'm sort of proud of 'em."

Mrs. Parsons poured two more cocktails.

SHIELDS lifted his glass. Evelyn Parsons drank at the same time, eyeing the young man over the rim of the goblet. She was smiling.

"May I call you Barney?" she asked.

"Of course. That's what everybody calls me. Makes me uncomfortable when I hear folks say Mr. Shields. Impulsively Barney leaned forward. "You've been awfully nice to me," he said boyishly. "You seem to understand things. There's one thing I want to know terribly. You can tell me. Will you do it?"

"Why, my dear boy. If there's any way that I can—of course I will!"

"Thanks. You see I could talk to you about it better than to anybody else." Shields had put down his glass and his gray eyes were solemn. "I'm awfully fond of Celia," he began, and then hesitated. "Naturally. We all are!"

"Yes, but you see I feel differently. Well, anyhow, I mean—listen, Mrs. Parsons, what I want to ask you is do you think Celia cares anything about me?"

"I'm sure she's fond of you—"

"Oh, but that isn't what I mean! I love Celia! I always have ever since the day I met her. Do you do you think she'd marry me?"

"Oh!" The exclamation was sharp, high-pitched.

"She must have said something to you about the way she feels," Shields persisted. "You've seen her with these other fellows. Tell me! Do you think I have a chance?"

"But didn't you know?" Evelyn exclaimed. "Oh, I'm so sorry! My dear boy, I thought of course you knew—"

"Knew what?"

"Why—oh, I don't know what to say! I supposed of course she had told you. Celia assured me you and she were such close friends!"

"What is it she didn't tell me? What do you mean?"

Evelyn Parsons took the young man's hands in hers. "This hurts me deeply," she said in a moving voice. "I do think Celia should have told you herself. Of course it's not announced generally yet, but Celia's to be married. I supposed you knew!"

"Married? You mean Celia's promised someone else? They're engaged? Oh, I suppose it's that Jordan!"

EVELYN gasped at the suggestion. "Yes," she said. "She's going to marry Ted Jordan. Perhaps I shouldn't have said anything. Perhaps I should have let her be the one!"

Barney shook his head gloomily. "No, it's better to know, since it's true. I suppose I might have guessed!"

He was silent, leaning back in his chair and staring straight ahead. Evelyn looked at Shields uncertainly. She lifted the shaker and refilled his glass. He took it, drank it without a word.

"If there were only anything I could do," Evelyn murmured.

"There isn't!" Suddenly the young man rose to his feet. "Well, Mrs. Parsons," he said with a forced voice, "it was certainly kind of you to have me here. I'd better be getting along now. Hope I didn't bore you with all that talk about photographs."

"I enjoyed every word of it! Must you go?"

"Yes, I think I'll have to be on my way."

"You'll come again, won't you? Celia will be back in a day or two I'm sure."

Barney smiled ironically. "I'd like to," he said, "but I imagine Celia will be rather busy. Good night, Mrs. Parsons, and thank you again."

"Good night."

Evelyn's hand closed over the young man's and clung for an instant, but it was only too evident that though his eyes were on hers, he did not really see her. Quickly he turned and left the apartment.

It was an hour later that John Mitchell and his daughter arrived. Mrs. Parsons greeted them cordially, kissed Celia and assured the girl she was delighted to see her. There was a little talk and then Mitchell departed. Celia went to the room she had called hers. Everything was as she had left it. She undressed, bathed and got into bed. Before she turned the light out Evelyn knocked.

"Celia," she said as she opened the door, "I just wanted to tell you, dear, that I'm terribly sorry for the way things turned out the other day. Truly, I thought I was acting for the best! I thought I'd have more influence with your father if he believed I didn't know Barney."

"That's all right," Celia said sleepily.

"You dear!" Evelyn stooped and kissed the girl's cheek before she departed.

The following day was to prove eventful.

Rules Minor Can't Vote

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., (UP)—Bernard R. Riley, minor, Mami, lost an appeal to the state supreme court demanding the right to vote on the grounds he was a married man. The court ruled married or not, he was not 21 years-old and therefore could not vote.

A double-barreled cannon, invented as a Confederate weapon in the Civil war, is a relic at Athens, Ga. It was a failure in battle.

He Ate Goldfish and a Canary

The peculiar appetite of 18-month-old Floyd Foght of New Orleans has given his mother, Mrs. Charles Foght, and New Orleans doctors some uneasy moments. First Floyd swallowed a three-inch live goldfish from the family bowl. He was hurried to a hospital and his life saved; but after he got home he opened the family bird cage and tried to swallow the canary whole, his mother getting to him just in time. Mrs. Foght and her son are shown here.

Home Demonstration Agent Gives Report

This Summary Report Includes Work Done in County By Miss Buecher Since Coming Here on March 1, 1930

For your consideration, I am submitting the following report of Home Demonstration work done since coming to Hempstead county, March 1, 1930.

Copies of the weekly report of the county home demonstration agent, which show daily activities of the agent, are on file with the county clerk and are open for inspection at all times.

The work for the year 1930 has been centered on food preservation, gardening, foods and nutrition, clothing, poultry, home improvement, home grounds, and boys' and girls' 4-H club work.

4-H Club Work

1. Total number of girls enrolled—234
2. Number of girls enrolled by projects:
 - Gardening and canning—95
 - Poultry—95
 - Room improvement—41
3. In addition to project, each girl is taught to serve a balanced meal, school lunches, and to prepare food in most health giving ways. Also in clothing, each girl is taught to make her own clothes at small cost.
4. 4-H club meetings held, 120; attendance 2,380; county encampment 1, attendance 88; 4-H camp at Fayetteville 2, attendance 26.

Club work, it seems to me, is the most important phase of county work, because it develops leadership. If we wish to improve our standard of living, we must begin with the girls who will be the homemakers of our country. The drought condition has caused a slight decrease in the results of projects carried on by 4-H club girls, but as a whole, reports are indicating exceedingly creditable accomplishments for the year.

Demonstration teams in canning, foods, and poultry judging were given at the 4-H club encampment.

There have been a number of outstanding club members this year, in both gardening and canning. For these projects, these girls raise vegetables that they are taught to can for winter use. Out of 53 first year girls enrolled in this project, Faye Samuel, DeAnn 4-H club girl is an example showing from her club garden. Total cost of fresh, dried and canned vegetables, $63.45, giving a profit of $53.71; prizes won at county and state fair on club products, including clothing, $62, giving a grand total of $115.71.

In fourth year canning, I shall note two examples:

Audrey Derryberry, Jakajones, cost $13.13, value $73.80, canned $95, profit from garden $155.67.

Opal, Sampels, DeAnn, cost, $8.70, value $42.42, canned $45, profit from garden $78.72.

Methods in canning are of the very highest standard. This is shown by the outstanding prizes won when the 4-H club girls of Hempstead county are competing for canning prizes. If the proper methods in home practices are once instilled as good habits with the club girls, they will continue using these practices when they become homemakers.

In poultry, the 4-H club members are taught proper methods in handling and raising for home use a flock of standard bred chickens. Lessons are given in feeding, balanced rations, culling, and keeping records. The home flock should be a paying proposition as well as the commercial flock. Winston Cobb of the Green Laster community, a third year poultry club member, started last November with 26 White Leghorn hens and two cockerels. His total profits for the year are $183, and 84 hens and four cockerels on hand now. Elsie Weisenberger of Center Point raises Barred Rocks. She produces fertile eggs for the market and watches her flock closely in culling out the non-profitable birds. Cost for the year: Feed and supplies, $83.25; value and income of birds, $95.89; poultry sold $10.02; giving a clear profit for the year of $86.10.

Agnes McAteer of Washington is a first year club member. She started with the Barred Rock baby chicks in March. She has spent $21.30 and has raised all the green feed for the chicks. She sold 29 fryers and received $17.40. She now has on hand 15 pullets and three cock birds valued at $27, giving a total profit of $23.10. Agnes is planning to keep record on her birds for the coming year.

The adult poultry work is centered around the Poultry association which was organized as a county organization last December. This is their first year, and their big work was the accreditating of about a dozen poultry flocks in the county. This means that we now have standard flocks of birds, and this was shown recently at our Southwest Arkansas Fair with the winnings. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Webb had a grand champion Leghorn; George Dadds had a grand champion White Rock, and the same bird won the grand champion loving cup at the Arkansas State Fair. The accreditating work will be carried on next year with more and better flocks. The baby chick and poultry day will be repeated in the early spring, thus giving all producers a chance to show their poultry for one day to every interested poultry party in this and adjoining counties, and to develop a market for poultry and poultry products in Hempstead county. During the year 1930, there has not been a time that there was not a ready market for standard poultry and poultry products in this county.

Along with the poultry, the turkey industry is being developed. There are about 10 enrolled in the "Turkey by the Acre" plan, and almost every farm in the county has a number of turkeys. Mrs. Charles H. Locke will have almost 200 birds to be marketed this fall. Definite results cannot be obtained so early in the season, but we shall market one carload of live turkeys, and this same number of birds will be disposed of in other ways.

Canning in the county was stimulated in the early spring by the home demonstration agent's explanation to each woman's club the canning budget and how to feed her family an adequate diet. Seven pressure cookers and two sealers have been placed in homes, besides the county equipment. I mention this equipment because it is necessary to have a pressure cooker to successfully can meats and non-acid vegetables. During the year, 73 demonstrations in canning have been given: 23 in meat canning, 15 in fruit canning, 27 in vegetable canning, six in jelly and conserve preservation, and four in curing pickles. As a result of these demonstrations, the women in this county have canned 23,150 quarts of products for winter use; this indicates an adequate diet, and health for their families.

Because of the drought conditions in our county, beef canning has become very popular. Every thrifty family wants their beef, that has no market, in a neddible condition for their winter food. To date, there are 354 cans of beef on the pantry shelves in this county. This includes the canned chicken from cuts also. Ten more canning demonstrations are scheduled for November and December.

The display of canned products was exceptionally good at our recent fair, with 836 cans in the general exhibit and 132 jars in the 4-H department. One hundred sixty-six jars of products were sent to the State Fair, and almost every entry won a prize. The quality of canned products was excellent.

The clothing work in the county is divided into two classes—the 4-H and the home demonstration women's department. The women work under the direction of the agent and are taught to dress economically, making and fitting their own clothes. Mrs. P. H. Stephens of Evelyns won first in the county clothing contest, and with this same home dress won second place in the state at Farmer's Week at Fayetteville. Sixty-seven dresses from all over the State were entered in this contest. Mrs. Stephens also won second on house dress, first on made-over garment, and first on child's dress at our recent Southwest Arkansas Fair and the same prizes at the State Fair. Mrs. D. M. Samuel of DeAnn won first on afternoon dress at the State Fair, giving a total of $5.00 in prize money. Without the supervision of the Home Demonstration Agent, these women of Hempstead county would not have been eligible to bring these honors to the county.

There were six community booths at recent Southwest Arkansas Fair. Each booth was beautiful, and a standard quality of products was found in these booths.

The better homes program this past year was the living room of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Stephens which is being built out of the lumber from the old home that has recently been torn down. This program helped to give Arkansas the first place in the National Better Homes program. The women in the county work entirely by organization; the clubs are formed in the different communities.

The women enroll and meet together to study their home problems in an organized group. The develop leadership, adopt improved practices in the home, and learn to dress economically. Likewise, this type of meeting has a social and educational side just as any other study group. They have an opportunity to compare their home problems, to exchange their ideas, and to tell their experiences. The officers of each of these women's clubs make up the organized county council. The work of the county council is to outline the extension work for the county. They make up the lessons on each home subject that they wish the home demonstration agent to give to each club in the county for the year. The county council will make out their program for next year at their regular monthly meeting the third Saturday afternoon in November.

The Hempstead county council is governed entirely by the reigning home demonstration spirit and is just one of the county councils in the state that go to make up the state council association.

I am sure that you are interested in the progress of extension work in your county, and I trust that you will give it your complete cooperation in voting for the appropriation when the quorum court meets November 10.

Thanking you for your splendid support in carrying out this program for 1930, I am,

Farmer Puts Fence Across Texas Road

Patrols Barrier With Shotgun to Prevent Tourists Going Through

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—(UP)—A Vada, grapevine farmer, put a fence across the newly completed Overturn highway through his place Thursday and then patrolled it with a shotgun to see that no one tore it down.

Motorists who drove up to the fence along the new highway were compelled to turn around and take a tour a half mile away.

Yates contended that he was violating no law, that the fence was across his own property, and that he had a right to patrol it with a gun. "I hope I won't have to use the gun, but I am determined," declared Yates.

A dog was the defendant in the lawsuit ever held in Grundy county, Tennessee.

How to play Bridge AUCTION CONTRACT

ARTICLE No. 9

Here is a recent description of Auction Bridge that is well worthy of quoting:

"Auction is the finest card game that ever was devised for the delight of mankind. It is also highly educational, giving the best of training to the faculties of memory, observation and logic deduction, besides developing the imagination and teaching practical psychology."

In that connection the following story is very much to the point:

"Leaving one of the largest Bridge clubs in the country the other day with two friends who had lost heavily, I heard one of them say:

"I wish I had never learned to play this darn game."

"The other player said: 'I wish that I had.'"

The second speaker was right, of course. Why not learn to play better Bridge? If you really try, you can improve your game, but there is a royal road to learning. The more you give in study and thought to the game, the more it will give to you in pleasure and mental development. It will pay mightily good cash dividends. A careful study of the following end play is one way to improve an important part of your game, so take full advantage of the opportunity.

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y win five of the six tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the queen of clubs and Y should discard the jack of spades. B's play is immaterial. Z should now lead the seven of spades and Y should discard the ten of hearts. A is thus forced in the lead with the eight of spades and must lead hearts up to Z's hand. No matter what A and B play, Z must win the balance of the tricks.

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y win four of the five tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the seven of diamonds and trump in V's hand with the six of spades. Y should now lead the jack of clubs. B must trump this or Z will take a heart discard and then only lose one heart trick. When B trumps, Z should overtrump, thus winning the trick. Z should then lead the seven of hearts which A can cover or play under. If A covers, Y should play a higher card. For example, suppose A plays the eight of hearts. Y should play the ten and B should win the trick with the jack. B must not lead a heart and Y must win the next two tricks. Note that if Z leads any card of hearts, A will win two tricks. For example, suppose Z leads the nine of hearts. A should play the queen and Y can either win or refuse to win the trick. If he wins it, he must lead a heart and A must win two tricks. If he refuses to win it, A should lead a heart and B must win a heart trick with the jack.

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y win two tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the four of spades which B is forced to win with the eight spot. B should now lead the seven of hearts, Z should discard the trick.

Spades—none

Diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y win three tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the ten of diamonds and Y should discard the ten of clubs. B should discard the deuce of clubs. A can either win the trick with the queen of clubs or let B win with the jack. If the latter, B can only make the queen of hearts and Y will win the balance of the tricks. The best defense is for A to win the second trick with the queen of clubs and on this trick Y should play the nine of clubs. A should then lead the ten of hearts and Y should refuse to cover. If he does, A will thus win in the balance of the tricks. When A is allowed to win the trick with the ten of hearts, he is forced to lead clubs up to the king of hearts in Z's hand. Z thus wins the balance of the tricks.

Note that this end play is impossible unless Y had played the ten and allowed B to win the first two tricks.

They Took Out Albie

YEAR ago Albie Booth was a star in the side of the West Point football team. This year, the cadets were out to stop Yale's little general, and they did. It did not like to believe, however, that the Army meant to stop Albie Booth in just the way they did. It always seemed to me that traditions of good sportsmanship at the Point were on too good a foundation to allow the intentional crippling of the little Eli.

Albie's reputation was built up early at the expense of the Army eleven last year. He ran over, under, around and through the team that Cagle captained. Of course, they were out to stop Booth this year, but I still don't think they meant to put him on a stretcher.

Three to One

WELL, they took him out, and if my faith in Army sportsmanship were any less firm, I wouldn't look so clear. I mean they did it. Three to one. All three of them cracked down on Albie at the same time. There is no law against three men tackling one, of course. Sometimes it takes three men to stop a great player.

They merely cracked down on little Albie the wrong way. You often can crack down on a man the wrong way and still be given the benefit of the doubt as to whether there was guile in your heart when you did it, or had the noblest purposes imaginable.

The facts of the case made it look bad. The Army simply had to stop Booth this year, or lose. Not only that but the disgrace of 1929, when Albie slipped through Army tacklers' hands like money through the hands of a drunken gambler, would be cumulative. Two years in a row, it would be said, Albie Booth, wisp of a lad, had run riot through a big, hard-boiled Army team.

Not Premeditated

OBVIOUSLY Army had to stop Albie. With this view of the matter when you saw three of those lummoxes piling into the lad and saw them take Albie away on a stretcher, you might have wondered if things hadn't been planned that way.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

HARRY NEWMAN, the fifty Michigan quarterback, has an extra large pair of hands. . . Eddie Powers, who coached Newman at Northern High, Detroit, says that Harry was better at catching passes in his high school days than at heaving them. . . In 1927 Newman made five one-handed catches of forward passes. . . and chosen for the All-Detroit high school team. . . Benny Friedman has large hands. . . Harry's mother goes to all of Michigan's home games. . . his two younger brothers and his dad were not surprised that Harry should become a star at Michigan. . . Harry plays baseball, too. . . his position is centerfield. . . Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson probably would make a shortstop out of him, though, if he ever should try out with the Dodgers. . . because if there is anything Robbie likes for a shortstop to have it is large hands.

But, of course, they weren't. The Army plays a hard game of football, but I do not like to think they slapped down this chap with the same motive a murderer has when he premeditates the slitting of an enemy's throat.

Maybe the Army was merely too enthusiastic in its intention to stop Albie Booth. Football players, you know, can be goaded into a pretty fine sort of frenzy by coaches, alumni and others. But Major Ralph Sasse wouldn't tell them to stop Albie Booth that way. The Major is too much of a sport.

The Right Way

THE Major would much prefer to see Albie stopped the other way—in his tracks every time he got hold of that ball. That would be the more sportsmanlike and satisfying way of stopping the little guy.

So I prefer to think that the stopping of Albie Booth by the team of the first part, namely, the United States Army football team, was just "one of those things." See me if I'm wrong.

Indications Point To Victory Tuesday

Bobcats and Fans Determined to Win Over the Curly Wolves

If destiny so decrees that Hope shall emerge the winner in the Bobcat-Curly Wolf football game at Prescott, next Tuesday, then it will go down in local gridiron history that the Bobcats of 1930 were the ones who broke the jinx which has for 12 years held watch over the good fortune of the Prescott team when it met Hope high school in the almost annual battle for football supremacy.

Although these games have been scheduled nearly every year for an unknown length of time, not since the 27th of November, 1918, when all the newspapers were still heralding the ending of the World war, and little space was given to the season's national game, or the Bobcats come out of this gridiron fight with the big end of the score. The victory on this date was a decisive one: 21-0. Fighting for the name of Bobcat at this time as taken from the files of The Star include: Chas. Lowthorp, Earl O'Neil, Leo Robins, Comer Boyett, Finley Ward, Courtney White and Robert LaGrone.

Previous to the date in 1918 the only other year when Hope has been victorious was 17 years ago, back in 1913. That year however, it seems that Prescott and Hope twice met on the field. Prescott won the first and Hope the last game. A record of this at fair as taken from the files of The Star under date of November 11, 1913, follows: "The game of football between the Hope high school and the team from the Prescott school last Saturday evening resulted in a victory for the home team, the score being 6-0. This was 'sweet revenge' for the boys, as it will be remembered that when Hope visited Prescott about ten days ago, Prescott took them into camp to the tune of 16-6." At this time the Prescott team was known by the name of Tigers.

No other record of a Prescott-Hope game was found until 1920, when the Bobcat team lost by the overwhelming score of 69-5. The next year, with some local fans thought had witnessed the overthrow of the Wolves by Hope, the record shows the Cats to have again lost 30-0. In 1922 another defeat was recorded. Since then it is a well known fact that each year the Bobcats have emerged on the tail end of the score.

This year probably finds the Bobcats in better position to win the battle of battles, since that day 12 years ago, when most of the present team were either learning the first principals of the three "R's" or knowing they would have to start to school in a year or two were wondering what it was all about. Both because of the Bobcat's strength this year, and the failure of Prescott to register as well as in preceding years, the Hope team has its best chance to break a link in Prescott's chain of victories.

According to the law of averages the Curly Wolf wall should have been demolished several times by Bobcat attack in the past dozen years, and if the 1930's do the job, they will certainly find for themselves a place in football's local hall of fame.

Prescott Defeats Arkadelphia 6-0

Curly Wolves to Meet Hope on About Even Terms Tuesday

Additional dope was furnished for the Hope-Prescott game at Prescott next Tuesday, when the Curly Wolves pounded out a 6-0 victory over Arkadelphia, at Arkadelphia, Friday afternoon.

Hope won from Arkadelphia last month by the score of 7 to 0. Both Hope and Prescott lost to Gurdon by 6 to 0, but the Hope defeat was protested on the ground that the result should have been a scoreless tie. Prescott lost to Camden 50 to 2, and Hope lost to the same team last Thursday 25 to 0.

With the dope promising a bitterly contested game, next Tuesday's struggle at Prescott is expected to draw a record-breaking crowd from all over Hempstead and Nevada counties. Hope hasn't won a football game from Prescott since 1918, but the local record thus far has whipped enthusiasm in this year's game to fever heat. Prescott has been going poorly all season, and the Hope eleven is expected to win.

Nashville Crushes Waldo By 46 to 6

Howard County Eleven Puts Game on Ice in First Half

NASHVILLE, Nov. 8.—(Special)—

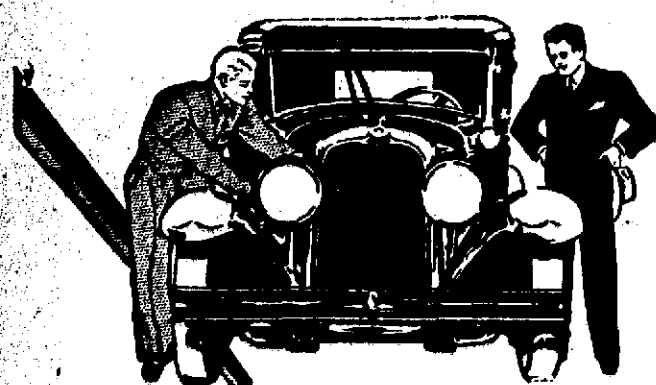

Nashville High School scored an easy victory over Waldo here Friday afternoon, 46 to 6. The local team, with one of the strongest lineups in recent years, ran wild through the Columbia county boys for the first two periods. The second team was sent in at the half, and held the visitors for the balance of the game.

supply, but the total number of dairy cattle found in the county should be increased. Particularly should the quality of the cattle be improved.

Some dairy authority stated that feeding, weeding and herd management were three essentials in successful dairy farming.

In the dairy program for Hempstead county these factors have all been particularly emphasized as a result of the feed program more dairy feed of the right quality has been produced than ever before.

The number of laying hens found on each farm, as a rule, is much lower than it should be. The farm flock of from 40 to 75 laying hens can prove one of the most profitable investments on the farm if properly managed. High quality birds fed a balanced ration is positively essential to success.

The replacement of scrub bulls by pure bred sires from tested dams has been steadily and consistently forward. Over 20 such sires have been brought to the county during the past two years and their blood is being scattered throughout the county. Some of these sires come from the leading blood lines of the breed.

Learning to breed, feed and manage a herd of cows is slow business, but a permanent asset, once learned. The county, like the state, does not produce enough pork to supply the demand. The best market we have for food of any kind is the home market. Some farmers believe they cannot produce pork profitably, since this is not if adequate pasture is available. The soil of the county need more livestock. Their humus and nitrogen content is low, and terracing together with the production of more livestock and feed for some are considered basic phases in the soil improvement program now being emphasized in the county. Too much cotton is being grown, and some of the mentioned forms of livestock offers the best substitute for this cash crop. The very best foundation breeding stock should be retained in cattle, hogs, poultry, and sheep, and this practice, combined with proper feeding and management will automatically reduce cotton acreage, and make for more general prosperity on Hempstead county farms.

Preparation for NATURAL GAS Goes On

DAY and night, year in and year out, in freezing weather or in blistering sun, along muddy roads or over trails deep in dust, heavy machinery and supplies are being hauled to some scene of operation carried on by Your Gas Company.

The peak demand for Natural Gas may come several months from now, and last but a few days during a bitter cold spell, yet during the intervening months of low gas consumption the preparation goes on. Constant expansion of facilities and extension of pipe lines are but parts of the obligation resting upon this institution to render adequate service to consuming patrons in nearly a hundred communities in the tri-state section of Arkansas, Louisiana and East Texas.

It is our happy privilege thus to contribute to the industrial development of this great area.
